

Training

Introduction to development and regeneration

This course provides an overview of the development process and how local authorities, housing organisations and other agencies can work together in partnership to achieve sustainable communities.

Why should I attend?

By the end of this course delegates can:

- Examine the strategic context for development and regeneration
- Think through the stages of the development process
- Identify the different types of development and how they apply
- Consider funding for development
- Discuss the role of agencies involved and how they relate together
- Appreciate the role of development in achieving sustainable communities

How is the course delivered?

Our courses run from 09:45 – 16:30. Delivered by expert trainers they bring together formal training with day-to-day experience. Small groups enable delegates to benefit from a high level of interaction with peers and trainers alike, and content informed by CIH's policy and practice expertise ensures they leave with a greater understanding of current housing issues.

Who should attend?

Suitable for new staff working in development and regeneration

Benefits of training with CIH

Our training programme is designed to ensure housing professionals and organisations are equipped to overcome the challenges they face day-to-day.